

WORLD'S SERIES MEANS 60 PER CENT TO WINNERS, 40 TO LOSERS AND 200 TO TICKET SCALPERS

PHILADELPHIA HAS 3 1920 WORLD'S CHAMPS

W. T. Tilden, 2d, John B. Kelly and Paul Costello Have Made Quaker City Known in Every Athletic-Loving Country—Had Many Titleholders in Past

By SPICK HALL. PHILADELPHIA, the center of American athletics, has three 1920 world champions, a unique distinction for any city. Our trio of world-beating athletes consists of William T. Tilden, 2d, lawn tennis champion and member of the Germantown Cricket Club; John B. Kelly, single and double sculling champion, member of the Vesper Boat Club; Paul Costello, double sculling champion, member of Vesper. Philadelphia has had many champions in the past, some of which were world-crowns, but none has ever had a clearer title to the globe's highest honors than Tilden, Kelly and Costello. Tilden etched his niche in the Hall of Fame by winning the International Lawn Tennis Association's tournament at Wimbledon, England, and then wresting the sprits at the game in London in 1908, after having established a series of fine records at the University of Pennsylvania.

Meredith might still be considered a world's champion, because his record of one minute fifty-two and one-fifth seconds for the half mile, made at Franklin Field May 15, 1916, never has been equaled, although he was beaten this year at the games in Antwerp. In 1910, 1911 and 1913 Connie Mack won world's baseball championships with his Athletics. His victims in the world's series were the Chicago Cubs in 1910 and the New York Giants in 1911 and 1913. The University of Pennsylvania has football teams that would have won world's championships, if such things were played. They haven't a world-beater at Franklin Field this year, but it wouldn't be surprising if Dr. John Heisman developed a great team before his three-year contract runs out at the end of the season of 1922. In the basketball court Philadelphia has had players of the highest caliber. The Eastern League in its palmy days, when Jasper, De Neri, Greystock, Camden, Reading and Trenton were on the circuit, gave the fans as good basketball as any team ever played. Philadelphia also has championship teams at cricket, soccer, la crosse, field hockey and other minor branches of athletics. We even have the national open-water swimming champion on the courts in Fairmount Park. What could be more thrilling?

FRANKFORD READY FOR OPENING GAME

Coach Heinie Miller is Not Holding East Falls Eleven Too Cheaply

Heinie Miller's Frankford A. A. Yellowjackets will get through another grueling practice tonight in preparation for the opening game next Saturday with the East Falls Y. M. A. Miller is not holding the Falls eleven cheaply and is drilling his men with the same spirit which the Holmesburg and Conshohocken battles will be prepared for.

With thirty-three candidates to select from, the coach will experiment with the best looking material and then decide his time to perfecting them in his system of play. The Yellowjackets have forsaken Community Field as a gridiron and have acquired new playing quarters on Brown's farm, Oxford Pike near Frankford High School.

A workout was held there Saturday. The new field is in excellent shape. The candidates were put through a two-hour drilling and two teams were chosen for a scrimmage lasting more than half an hour. A good attack was shown by both sides, each scoring twice.

Have Bristow, of Bridesburg, is exceedingly optimistic over the gridiron situation in the neighborhood of Richmond and Orthodox streets, and he avers this eleven will be on of hit from rank contenders for city gridiron honors. Affairs have reached such a point that the club is ready to test its strength and the opening attraction is announced as Sunday, October 10, when Hobart will appear.

Another practice will be held on Thursday evening. Of the candidates reporting, three former Frankford stars, Shiraz, end; Simondet, center, and Mellow, tackle, are showing up best. There are many gridiron fans who believe that Shiraz is the class at this position in the city.

Another candidate of which much is expected is Fred Pickard a 210-pound fullback and the biggest man in the squad. The other games to be played in October outside of the opening clash are: October 17, Receiving Ship; October 24, Thomas A. C.; October 31, Riverside.

GOLF STARS ENTER MERION TOURNEY

Starting Times Announced for 72-Hole Medal Play Invitation Event—Headliners Expected

An incomplete entry list for the invitation seventy-two-hole medal play Merion golf tournament was announced today. It starts tomorrow, when the first thirty-six holes will be played over the east course and the final rounds will be played Thursday. The play directly precedes the annual tri-state team competition at singles and foursomes for the Lesley cup. The teams are from Pennsylvania, New York and Massachusetts. It is not known just when these stars, including Francis Ouimet, S. D. Herron and others, will arrive, but their starting times will be arranged at the first one if they get here in time to play in the medal tourney.

Many of them have promised to play, but there is plenty of talent in the entry list already received. There will be seven prizes, including trophies for the best eighteen holes, thirty-six-hole totals and the seventy-two.

The strongest local players are expected and will provide plenty of competition for the vanguard of stars from the metropolitan district, which include Jerry Travers, four times amateur champion; Reggie Lewis, who took Chick Evans to the forty-first at the Engineers; J. G. Anderson, ex-national finalist; Gardner White, "met" finalist; Jesse Sweetser, intercollegiate champion, and others. The pairings and starting times follow:

BUCKNELL CONFIDENT OF DEFEATING PENN

Veteran Aggregation, Virtually the Same Team That Beat Quakers Last Year, Will Be Down for Game Here on Saturday Afternoon

IF CONFIDENCE and optimism count for anything in football, Bucknell should easily defeat Penn on Saturday afternoon on Franklin Field in the annual game between the two institutions. The reason for most of the optimism is well founded for Bucknell has a veteran aggregation this year and one that should give the Red and Blue a fight long to be remembered.

Last year's team from Lewisburg did just that and with most of that famous team on this year's eleven the same thing can be looked for. But enough of that. Read the following that was sent to Dr. George Orton, the Penn publicity man, who requested some information on the team that Penn must meet Saturday afternoon.

"When Bucknell faces the University of Pennsylvania on the gridiron next Saturday, the Quakers will face eleven tough propositions. The eleven Orange and Blue warriors all have had excellent experience with an odd nine or ten from last year's first string men and one or two with enviable prep school reputations. They are all men built from the ground and the chin up, every one as strong as oxen and all know how to play football.

"Coach Peter Reynolds turned them from the fundamentals to the technical in daily scrimmages during the past week. Shake-ups are incessant and it may be depended upon that the men who fill the berths have earned them. Football, speed, endurance and gray matter are the requirements by which Coach Reynolds has chosen his first probable eleven.

This is the way it looks now: Vic Bihl will pilot the team as last year at center with Lewey Morrett and Fred Lauster playing at his flanks. John Dooley and Frank Homan will do their best at tackle while Pat McDermott and Hahn will see that no great gains are made around the ends. With Tom Mangan, Joe Kostos, Gadhien and Bowser carrying the pigskin, a powerful attack has been developed. Mangan will call the signals and try to pick Penn's weak spots.

"Any one of the backs might be called upon to do the punting for spirals averaging fifty yards leave their team daily. The back average 175 pounds while from tackle to tackle the men tip the beam at an odd 186 pounds. McDermott and Hahn are no slouches for end men, as each must weigh in the neighborhood of 165 pounds. That's the dope, but you never can tell."

While the above has not struck any error into the Red and Blue cohorts, they are going to put in the hardest week yet in preparation for Bucknell. Scrimmages every afternoon after a long signal drill are on the schedule. Yesterday the varsity with a patched-up line-up had a narrow escape from possible defeat at the hands of the second. Play was barely ten minutes' old when the latter crashed through the varsity line for 7 yards and a touchdown. Calder, who was playing his first day in the scrimmage drill, was the luminary. He carried the ball time after time for the big gains, and on his last made the 7 yards necessary for the score.

Just about the time Coach Heisman was sounding the signal for the squad to retire for the day, Vic Streevey picked a second team forward pass out of the air and raced 25 yards for a touchdown that tied the score. The game was conspicuous because of the many errors of both teams, with the varsity making the greater number in the seconds, taking advantage of every one.

Herb Hopper is nursing his injuries, itching to get into the line-up. Carl Thomas, former Central High School lad, will act as the field captain. Thomas is the oldest member of the squad and was opposed to Hopper in the election for captain last fall.

Thomas removed the bandage from his shoulder yesterday afternoon and announced that he would enter the scrimmage drills before the week is out and that he would play against Bucknell on Saturday. Tommy indicated in the signal drill yesterday, but remained out of the scrimmage practice.

The Penn critics are all rounding to form and it would not be at all surprising to see Mike Whitehill in the line-up on Saturday. Yesterday Whitehill ran through the signal drill and stated that he is injured and did not trouble him at all. He has been on the sidelines since the squad left George School. He has a dislocated elbow.

Corcoran, the big scrub player of last year, is the only member of the squad who has not been reported. No word has been received from him for more than two weeks, but he is expected some time this week. He will fit in admirably as a substitute and may even make a place on the first eleven.

Here's the Major League Dope, Short and Sweet

Brooklyn clinched the National League pennant by doing nothing yesterday while New York split a double header with Boston. The Dodgers could lose all their remaining games and the Giants make a clean sweep, yet Brooklyn would capture the pennant.

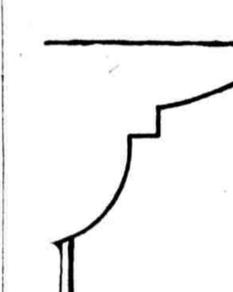

In the American League Cleveland and Chicago are still nip and tuck. Both won yesterday, with the result that Cleveland is still leading by a percentage equivalent to half a game. Five victories in their remaining six games would insure the first games of the world series being held in Cleveland, even if the White Sox keep up their winning streak and close their season with three straight. The Yanks have no chance for second place if Chicago wins one more and if Cleveland wins two more.

American Bridge Tennis. The American Bridge Co. invitation tennis tournament was won yesterday by H. Custer, who defeated A. Bronbach in the final round.

Harvard—The majority of the eleven that participated in the regularly game had the opportunity to play in a special scrimmage with the scrubs. The coaches used virtually all the men who did not play in the opening game. Tommy Wales, quarter on the second team for a while last year, and who spent the latter part of the season with the varsity squad, had his chance to run. Team 11, Coaches predict a big season for him.

Yale—Ted Jones made his first important experimental shift when, as a result of weakness shown by the ends in last week's scrimmaging, he moved Leon Walker, the varsity tackle of last year, over to left end on the second eleven. The rest of the line-up was unchanged.

Princeton—The heat curtailed Coach Roper's program yesterday, but the varsity squad were sent through a short scrimmage, despite the humidity. Hank Garrity, a star line punter of last year's varsity, made his first appearance of the year. He is recovering from an illness, and is lighter than he was in 1919. He took part in the preliminary work, but was a spectator at scrimmage.

Cheer up with an all-day cigarette

SPURS are an "Old Kentucky Home"—"Annie Laurie" kind of cigarette. You will be right smoking Spurs every day in the year. They're the most comforting, fragrant, mild cigarettes you've met up with since Auld Lang Syne.

That's because good tobacco (from our homeland and Turkey) is the only kind that's used, blended so you can smoke whenever you like and enjoy it—and enjoy it just as much the next time.

There is not a thing to mar your pleasure—as Spurs are crimped, not pasted. Better taste, easier drawing, longer burning. Only Spur has these advantages.

Yonder at your dealer's there are twenty good Spurs, in the smart brown-and-silver package, waiting to refresh and delight that fed-up taste of yours.
